KRISHNAVI
CHARITABLE TRUST

FROM THE CHAIRPERSON

It gives me great pleasure to present the Annual Report for the year 2025–26, reflecting another year of service, compassion, and positive social impact by Krishnavi Charitable Trust.

On behalf of the entire Trust, I extend my heartfelt gratitude to Safdarjung Hospital, our esteemed CSR partners, donors, volunteers, and well-wishers for their unwavering support, trust, and generosity. Your contributions have enabled us to reach those who need help the most and bring hope to countless lives.

Since our establishment, our mission has remained steadfast—to ensure that vulnerable individuals receive the healthcare, support, and opportunities they need to live with dignity and hope. Guided by our belief, “Helping You Stay Healthy, No Matter What,” we have continued to serve patients, elderly individuals, underprivileged families, and communities facing social and economic challenges.

During the year, we provided critical medical assistance, supported life-saving surgeries, facilitated rehabilitation services, distributed food and essential supplies, and helped numerous patients access treatment that would otherwise have remained beyond their reach. We also strengthened our efforts in education, skill development, and livelihood support, empowering individuals to build a more secure and independent future.

Behind every achievement highlighted in this report is a human story—a patient given a second chance at life, a child offered new opportunities, an elderly person cared for with dignity, and a family that found hope during difficult times. These stories remind us that true change begins with compassion and grows through collective action.

Our accomplishments have been possible because of the dedication of our team, the commitment of healthcare professionals, and the continued trust of our supporters and beneficiaries. I sincerely thank each one of you for being an integral part of this journey.

While we take pride in what we have achieved, we remain committed to expanding our reach and deepening our impact in the years ahead. Together, let us continue building a healthier, more inclusive, and compassionate society where no one is left behind and every individual is given the opportunity to live with dignity, care, and hope.

With gratitude and hope,

Ms. Umang Sharma

Our Journey and Impact

Since its inception, Krishnavi Charitable Trust has been driven by a simple yet powerful vision—to ensure that no individual is deprived of healthcare, education, nutrition, or basic human dignity because of financial hardship. What began as a compassionate initiative to support patients and vulnerable communities has evolved into a multi-dimensional organization working across healthcare, humanitarian relief, education, community welfare, and sustainable development.

Over the years, the Trust has established a strong presence in providing healthcare assistance to poor and underprivileged patients, particularly those seeking treatment at major government hospitals. Understanding the physical, emotional, and financial challenges faced by patients and their families, the Trust offers support through medical consultations, diagnostic investigations, medicines, hospitalization assistance, patient counselling, and guidance throughout the treatment process. By bridging critical gaps in healthcare access, the Trust has helped hundreds of families receive timely medical care with dignity and hope.

Recognizing that health and well-being are closely linked to nutrition and social security, the Trust has implemented large-scale food distribution programmes to combat hunger and food insecurity among economically weaker families. Thousands of individuals have benefited from the distribution of essential food kits, ensuring access to nutritious meals during times of financial distress and crisis.

Education has remained another cornerstone of the Trust's work. The organization believes that every child deserves an opportunity to learn and succeed, regardless of their socio-economic background. To support this vision, bicycles have been distributed to students from rural and underprivileged communities, enabling them to travel safely to school and reducing dropout rates. School bags and educational materials have also been provided to children studying in government and tribal schools, encouraging regular attendance and improving the overall learning environment.

The Trust has consistently worked towards creating an inclusive society by extending support to children with visual impairment through educational assistance and welfare initiatives. It has also reached out to abandoned, homeless, and elderly individuals by providing food, clothing, essential supplies, and compassionate care, helping restore dignity and improving their quality of life.

In line with its commitment to environmental responsibility, Krishnavi Charitable Trust has promoted sustainable development through the installation of solar power systems in schools, community centres, and other deserving institutions. These initiatives not only reduce energy costs but also encourage the adoption of clean and renewable energy, contributing to long-term environmental sustainability.

Beyond direct service delivery, the Trust actively organizes preventive health awareness programmes, health camps, educational campaigns, and community outreach initiatives to empower people with knowledge about disease prevention, hygiene, nutrition, mental health, and healthy lifestyles. By focusing on awareness alongside assistance, the Trust aims to create lasting behavioural change and healthier communities.

The Trust's journey has been strengthened through meaningful collaborations with hospitals, government institutions, educational organizations, corporate partners, donors, volunteers, and social welfare organizations. These partnerships have enabled the organization to expand its reach and deliver impactful programmes that address the diverse needs of vulnerable populations.

Today, the impact of Krishnavi Charitable Trust extends far beyond numbers. Every patient treated, every child supported, every family provided with food, every elderly person cared for, and every institution empowered through sustainable initiatives represents a life touched with compassion and hope. The Trust remains committed to expanding its reach, strengthening communities, and creating lasting social change through innovation, collaboration, and dedicated service.

As it looks to the future, Krishnavi Charitable Trust continues its journey with renewed determination—to build a society where quality healthcare is accessible, education is within every child's reach, vulnerable individuals are treated with dignity, and sustainable development becomes a shared responsibility. Guided by compassion and inspired by service, the Trust remains steadfast in its mission of transforming lives and creating healthier, happier, and more inclusive communities for generations to come.

Our Areas of Work

1. Patients Treated, Cared for & Assisted at Safdarjung Hospital

Krishnavi Charitable Trust has been working tirelessly at Safdarjung Hospital to support poor, needy, and vulnerable patients who come from different parts of India in search of treatment and hope. Many of these patients arrive from remote villages and economically weaker communities, often with limited financial resources and little understanding of the hospital system.

Recognizing these challenges, Krishnavi Charitable Trust stands beside patients and their families 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, ensuring that no one is left alone during their medical journey. The Trust acts as a vital support system within the hospital, helping patients access timely consultations, diagnostic tests, admissions, treatment procedures, and follow-up care.

Our dedicated social workers and volunteers assist patients in navigating various hospital departments, coordinating with doctors, and completing essential medical formalities. For many families visiting a large tertiary care hospital for the first time, this guidance proves invaluable and helps reduce anxiety during an already difficult period.

In addition to healthcare support, the Trust provides medicines, nutritious food, medical consumables, and emergency assistance to patients who are unable to afford basic necessities. Special attention is given to elderly patients, children, persons with disabilities, and attendants who often struggle to meet daily expenses while staying in Delhi for prolonged treatment.

The Trust also extends emotional and psychological support to patients and caregivers. A compassionate conversation, reassurance during critical moments, and continuous follow-up often help families cope with the stress and uncertainty associated with serious illnesses. Our volunteers work closely with hospital staff to ensure that deserving patients receive timely assistance and are connected with available support services whenever possible.

Throughout the year, Krishnavi Charitable Trust remained actively engaged across various departments of Safdarjung Hospital, helping patients overcome barriers related to affordability, accessibility, and awareness. By bridging the gap between healthcare services and vulnerable communities, the Trust has touched countless lives and reinforced the belief that quality healthcare should be accessible to all, regardless of economic circumstances.

The Trust provides freshly prepared meals, dry ration kits, and other essential food items to individuals facing financial hardship. Special attention is given to patients who have traveled from distant villages and low-income communities, often leaving behind their livelihoods and support systems in search of medical treatment.

Through these efforts, the Trust helps ensure that no patient or caregiver has to endure hunger during an already difficult time. The food distribution program not only addresses immediate nutritional needs but also provides comfort, relief, and a sense of dignity to those facing challenging circumstances.

Altamas is a twelve-year-old child whose life has been deeply impacted by chronic kidney disease. Since 22 February 2025, his days have revolved not around school, friends, or play, but around frequent hospital visits and life-sustaining dialysis sessions. At an age meant for dreams and discovery, Altamas is instead fighting a battle for survival. For him and his family, each day brings a mix of resilience, uncertainty, and hope for a healthier future.

A Child's Struggle

While most children dream of their future, Altamas spends hours each week connected to a dialysis machine—his lifeline. The physical toll is immense, but the emotional burden on his family is equally heavy. Watching their child endure pain and uncertainty has been deeply distressing, especially with limited financial resources.

Program Support

Through our healthcare initiative in 2025, KRISHNAVI CHARITABLE TRUST has been providing dialysis support to three children suffering from critical kidney conditions at Safdarjung Hospital, New Delhi. Altamas is one of the beneficiaries of this program, receiving continuous medical care and support to help stabilize his condition and sustain his treatment journey.

After thorough medical evaluation, Dr. Shobha recommended a kidney transplant—the only long-term solution that can give Altamas a chance at a normal, healthy life. In a powerful act of love and courage, a family member has stepped forward to donate a kidney.

The required compatibility (matching) tests have been conducted, and the family now waits anxiously for the results—holding on to hope that this transplant will be possible.

Our Intervention

- We have been standing beside Altamas and his family at every step by providing:
- Regular dialysis sessions to sustain his life
- Essential medicines for kidney care
- Support for critical diagnostic tests, including transplant matching
- Continuous medical guidance and monitoring
- While dialysis keeps Altamas alive, it is not a permanent solution. A kidney transplant is urgently needed to free him from this cycle and give him a real chance at childhood—a chance to go to school, to play, and to dream again. However, the cost of transplant surgery, post-operative care, and lifelong medication is far beyond what his family can afford.

A Journey of Pain, Hope, and Humanity

How One Child’s Fight United a Family, Safdarjung Hospital, and Krishnavi Charitable Trust

At an age when children dream about school, friends, and games, 12-year-old Aman has spent years battling pain, surgeries, and uncertainty. Hailing from a humble family in Bijnor, Aman’s life changed forever after a tragic accident during play on 22 December 2022. A severe fracture in his leg not only shattered his bones but also placed an unbearable burden on a family already struggling to survive.

Aman lost his father at a young age. Since then, his widowed mother and sisters have carried the responsibility of holding the family together. One of his sisters works tirelessly to earn enough money for food, medicines, and travel to hospitals, while his mother spends sleepless nights praying for her son’s recovery. Every hospital visit meant another sacrifice — borrowed money, missed meals, and days filled with fear about what the future would bring. In December 2022, Aman was rushed to the emergency Orthopaedics Ward of Safdarjung Hospital. Doctors immediately admitted him and performed surgery to stabilize his fractured leg with a fixator. For the family, the hospital became more than a treatment centre — it became the place where hope still existed. From January 2023 to December 2024, Aman continued regular follow-ups in the OPD, moving from one dressing room to another, from X-rays to painful examinations, while his family waited anxiously outside every ward door.

Despite continuous treatment, his leg did not heal properly. The family knocked on many doors seeking financial help, but poverty often leaves people unheard. There were moments when Aman’s mother feared her son might never walk properly again. Yet amid this darkness, compassion found its way to them through the doctors of Safdarjung Hospital.

Seeing the family’s helpless condition, orthopaedic specialist Dr. Ashish Jayman introduced them to Anil Saxena from Krishnavi Charitable Trust. That meeting became a turning point in Aman’s life.

The Trust listened to the family not as strangers, but with empathy and responsibility. When doctors advised a complex circular fixator surgery costing ₹57,700 in January 2025, Aman’s family had no way to arrange the amount. For them, even daily survival was difficult. But Krishnavi Charitable Trust stepped forward without hesitation and ensured the surgery was completed successfully on 22 January 2025.

For Aman’s mother, it was the first moment in years when she felt they were not fighting alone. Even after the surgery, Aman’s recovery remained difficult. His fragile young body continued to suffer, and when his condition did not improve as expected, he was referred to orthopedic surgeon Dr. Vikas Gupta. After evaluation in April 2026, doctors advised yet another surgery costing nearly ₹37,000.

The news broke the family emotionally. They had already exhausted every possible resource. But once again, Krishnavi Charitable Trust stood beside Aman like a guardian during his darkest hour. The Trust arranged support for his third surgery, which was successfully performed on 5 May 2026 at Safdarjung Hospital.

Today, Aman lies in Ward 29A, Bed No. 4, still recovering under the supervision of doctors. His journey is not over, but neither is the support surrounding him.

This story is not only about a child suffering from a fracture. It is about a grieving family refusing to give up on their son. It is about doctors in a government hospital who looked beyond medical files and saw human pain. And it is about Krishnavi Charitable Trust, which became a lifeline for a child whose dreams could have been lost to poverty.

Together, the family, the doctors of Safdarjung Hospital, and Krishnavi Charitable Trust created something far greater than treatment — they created hope.

Aman’s story is not just about medical treatment. It is a story of resilience, compassion, and humanity. In moments when his family had lost hope, Krishnavi Charitable Trust became their strongest support system — ensuring that poverty did not decide the fate of a child fighting to walk again.

A Second Chance at Life: 14-Year-Old Mustafa Awaits Life-Saving Kidney Transplant

New Delhi — Fourteen-year-old Mustafa is currently battling a life-threatening kidney condition that has drastically altered the course of his young life. Since November 2025, he has been undergoing regular dialysis and intensive medical care at Safdarjung Hospital under the supervision of Dr. Shobha Sharma, Head of the Nephrology Department.

Under the care of Dr. Shobha Sharma, Head of the Nephrology Department at Safdarjung Hospital, Mustafa has been receiving regular dialysis and critical treatment to keep his condition stable.

With the support of Krishnavi Charitable Trust, Mustafa's journey has continued with access to essential dialysis, blood tests, and life-saving medications. This support has been a lifeline for his family during an incredibly difficult time.

A Ray of Hope

Today, Mustafa stands on the brink of a life-changing moment.

In an extraordinary act of love, his mother has come forward as his donor, and all compatibility tests have been successfully completed. This transplant offers Mustafa a real chance at a healthy, normal life

While the transplant brings hope, it also comes with significant medical expenses—including surgery, hospitalization, and long-term post-transplant care.

At just 13 years of age, Naved should have been spending his days in school, playing with friends, and dreaming about his future. Instead, this young boy from Meerut has been fighting a painful and life-threatening liver disease that has turned his childhood into a struggle for survival.

For nearly two years, Naved's family moved from one hospital to another across Uttar Pradesh, desperately searching for treatment that could save their son. Every visit brought new medicines, new tests, and new expenses — but no relief. As his condition continued to worsen, hope slowly began fading from the family's life.

Naved's father, the only earning member of the family, works as a daily wage labourer with masons at construction sites. Whatever little he earns is barely enough to feed the family. Yet, like every father, he refused to give up on his child. With tears in his eyes and hope in his heart, he brought Naved to Safdarjung Hospital, Delhi where the child was admitted to Ward No. 20 on 11 April 2026.

During treatment, Dr. Meena understood the painful reality of the family's financial condition and connected them with Krishnavi Charitable Trust. At a time when the family had almost no resources left, they were informed that one of the injections required for Naved's treatment would cost nearly ₹44,000. For a family struggling even for daily meals, this amount felt impossible.

But humanity still exists where compassion leads the way.

Recognizing the urgency of the child's condition, Krishnavi Charitable Trust stepped forward to support Naved's treatment and stand beside the family in their darkest hours. The Trust's team regularly visits the hospital, monitors his condition, guides the family through medical procedures, and provides every possible support to ensure that poverty does not become a reason for a child losing his life.

Naved is still admitted and continues to fight bravely every single day. His weak body carries the pain of illness, but his eyes still carry hope — hope to recover, to return home, and to live a normal childhood again.

This is not just the story of one child. It is the reality faced by countless families who silently suffer between illness and poverty. Naved's journey reminds us that timely medical care, compassion, and collective support can become the difference between despair and hope.

Through every hospital visit, every medicine arranged, and every hand held in support, Krishnavi Charitable Trust continues its mission of standing beside vulnerable patients and ensuring that no child is left alone in the fight for life.

At just 29 years old, Priti saw her life change forever on 18 September 2025. A devastating gas cylinder explosion inside her home in Bareilly turned an ordinary day into a horrifying tragedy. Within moments, flames engulfed her body, leaving her with severe burn injuries, unbearable pain, and emotional scars that continue to haunt her even today.

The accident shattered not only Priti's physical health but also the emotional and financial stability of her entire family. Terrified and helpless, her loved ones rushed her to Royal Gand Hospital, where her treatment began. Despite continuous efforts, her condition failed to improve as expected. Days turned into weeks, and the family watched helplessly as medical expenses kept rising while hope slowly began to fade.

With limited financial resources and no clear path forward, the family found themselves trapped between pain and helplessness. It was during this difficult phase that support arrived through Anil Saxena from Krishnavi Charitable Trust. Understanding the seriousness of her condition, he helped arrange her admission to the Burn Department of Safdarjung Hospital on 26 December 2025.

For Priti and her family, this was more than a hospital transfer – it was the beginning of renewed hope.

Since then, Priti has been undergoing an extremely painful and emotionally exhausting recovery journey. Severe burn injuries require long-term treatment, repeated dressings, medicines, infection prevention, constant monitoring, and immense emotional strength. Every dressing procedure brings intense pain, and every day demands courage simply to keep going.

Throughout this difficult period, Krishnavi Charitable Trust has stood beside Priti continuously, ensuring that financial hardship does not interrupt her treatment. The Trust has provided medicines, coconut oil, dressing materials, and every essential item needed for her surgeries and recovery process.

Although Priti was discharged from Safdarjung Hospital on 2 February 2026, her battle is far from over. She is currently staying in the Dharamshala near the hospital so she can continue regular follow-ups and treatment under the supervision of doctors.

Even today, she undergoes frequent dressing procedures that cause severe pain and discomfort. Her skin remains extremely sensitive, and the healing process is progressing slowly. Simple daily activities that once felt effortless have now become physically exhausting and emotionally draining.

Along with physical suffering, Priti continues to carry the emotional trauma of the accident. The fear, the memories of the fire, and the uncertainty about the future remain constant challenges in her life. Yet despite everything she has endured, she continues to fight with remarkable courage and determination.

She attends every follow-up appointment with the hope that one day she will recover fully and reclaim a normal life. However, the financial burden of her treatment remains far beyond what her family can manage alone.

At this critical stage, Krishnavi Charitable Trust continues to support her like a family – ensuring uninterrupted access to medicines, dressing materials, coconut oil, and other treatment necessities. Their continued care has become a lifeline for Priti during one of the darkest chapters of her life.

Today, Priti's story reflects both immense pain and extraordinary resilience – a young woman carrying the scars of a

Mr. Sanjay, a 46-year-old resident of Ballabgarh, spent his life working as a house painter, earning a modest daily income through whitewashing and painting homes. With his hard work, he supported his family consisting of his wife, one son, and a daughter. His son works as a daily wage labourer, while his wife goes door to door doing housekeeping work to help sustain the household. For families like theirs, survival depends entirely on daily earnings.

But one tragic accident changed everything.

After slipping and falling in his bathroom, Sanjay suffered a severe fracture in his right hip bone. The injury left him unable to walk, work, or even move without unbearable pain. The man who once spent his days climbing ladders and painting homes suddenly became confined to a bed, dependent on his family for even the smallest daily activities.

Doctors advised urgent surgery, but the estimated expense of ₹98,951 for the implant and operation was far beyond what the family could afford. With no BPL card or Ayushman support, the family had no financial protection. For nearly four painful months, Sanjay continued to suffer without treatment as his family struggled desperately to arrange funds while trying to survive on irregular daily wages.

Sanjay's treatment was being carried out in the Orthopaedic Department of Safdarjung Hospital under the supervision of Dr. R. K. Beniwal. Understanding both the seriousness of the medical condition and the extreme financial hardship faced by the family, the doctors approached Krishnavi Charitable Trust for support.

Responding with compassion and urgency, Krishnavi Charitable Trust stepped forward to bear the complete cost of Sanjay's treatment. Following the recommendation of the doctors, the required amount was directly transferred to the Medical Superintendent's account to arrange the implant and ensure that the surgery could proceed without delay.

However, the Trust's support extended far beyond financial assistance.

Recognizing that vulnerable patients often struggle to navigate large public hospitals alone, a dedicated staff member from Krishnavi Charitable Trust remained actively involved in Sanjay's treatment journey at Safdarjung Hospital. The staff member regularly accompanied the patient to doctors' consultations, assisted with hospital formalities, coordinated sample collection and medical tests, collected reports, arranged prescribed medicines, and ensured continuous follow-up on the patient's condition.

From carrying the patient between departments inside the hospital to helping the family understand procedures and appointments, the Trust became a constant source of support during one of the most difficult periods of their lives. For a family already emotionally and financially exhausted, this care brought not only practical help, but also reassurance, dignity, and hope.

On 15 April 2026, Sanjay successfully underwent a Total Hip Replacement surgery fully supported by Krishnavi Charitable Trust. After months of pain, helplessness, and uncertainty, the surgery marked the beginning of a new chapter in his life.

Today, Sanjay's recovery stands as a powerful reminder that healthcare support is not only about funding treatment – it is about standing beside patients when they feel most helpless. Through timely medical assistance, compassionate patient care, and unwavering support, Krishnavi Charitable Trust helped restore not just Sanjay's mobility, but also the dignity and hope of an entire family.

Restoring Dignity Beyond Treatment

On 1 April 2026, an elderly woman of nearly 60 years was brought to Ward No. 28 of the Orthopaedics Department at Safdarjung Hospital under the care of Dr. Jitendra Talwar. She was in unbearable pain, suffering from a severe fracture in her right thigh. Weak, frightened, and unable to walk, she arrived at the hospital not only injured – but completely alone.

Doctors successfully performed her surgery and gave her the medical treatment she urgently needed. But once the operation was over, another painful truth emerged. There was no family waiting for her. No one to take her home. No one to care for her during recovery.

For most people, a hospital discharge means returning to the comfort of loved ones. For her, it meant facing the fear of abandonment once again.

At a time when she needed support the most, Krishnavi Charitable Trust stepped forward with humanity and compassion. Believing that healthcare does not end at hospital treatment, the Trust took responsibility for her rehabilitation and ensured that she was safely shifted to an old age home in Delhi, where she could recover with dignity, safety, and emotional care.

For the Trust, this was not merely an act of assistance – it was a commitment to protecting the dignity of a vulnerable human life. From coordinating her post-operative support to arranging shelter, rehabilitation, and compassionate care, the organization ensured that she was not abandoned during the most difficult phase of her life.

Krishnavi Charitable Trust continues to work tirelessly for abandoned, vulnerable, and economically weaker patients who often struggle not only with illness, but also with loneliness, neglect, and the absence of support systems. The Trust believes that every individual deserves compassion, respect, and the opportunity to heal in a safe and caring environment.

This story reflects the true spirit of the Trust's mission – to stand beside those who have no one else to rely on, to restore hope where there is despair, and to bring dignity, humanity, and care into the lives of the forgotten.
